AFGHANISTAN

Afghanistan Undergraduate Fellowship Program (AUFPP)

Created in 2007 by the AMZ Renaissance Foundation in partnership with American Councils for International Education, the Afghanistan Undergraduate Fellowship Program (AUFPP) provides merit-based scholarships to academically qualified students of Afghanistan for undergraduate study at accredited U.S. universities. The duration of study is typically four years, but may vary depending on field of study and the candidate's English language proficiency upon enrollment. Finalists will be enrolled in U.S. universities as first-year students, not as transfer students. A total of five full fellowships will be awarded for the 2008-2009 academic year. Funding is typically for four years.

ANTIGUA AND BARBUDA

OAS Undergraduate Fellowships Program

The objective of the Organization of American States (OAS) Program of Scholarships and Training is to assist the member states with their domestic efforts in pursuit of integral development goals by supporting human resource development in the priority areas established by the Summits of the Americas, the Strategic Plan for Partnership for Integral Development of the Inter-American Council for Integral Development (CIDI), and the OAS General Assembly.

The OAS is committed to promoting and supporting human capacity development and the strengthening of bonds among the peoples in the Hemisphere by maximizing the number of scholarships awarded in reputable educational institutions in its member states with the resources available. To achieve this goal, the OAS Scholarship Program will place more scholarship recipients in universities which belong to the OAS consortium of universities or with which the OAS will make written agreements for the placement of students. Accordingly, the number of scholarships which will be awarded to individuals who have obtained their own admission to a university will be seriously reduced. Thus, applicants who elect the Self-placed Scholarship option only will have less of an opportunity to win an OAS scholarship.

The funds provided by the OAS are intended to serve as a complement to those funds which the scholarship recipient may already be receiving from other sources or to assist the recipient with general costs to make the completion of her/his studies feasible. Grants are administered by LASPAU.

Of the 24 undergraduate scholarships awarded for 2008-09 3 went to students from Antigua and Barbuda.

Guidelines: To be considered for an OAS academic scholarship, applicants must:

- Be citizens or permanent residents of an OAS member state.
- Possess the educational background and, if required, professional experience to be accepted into the requested academic program.

- Be in general good health as to complete the program successfully.
- Be endorsed by the National Liaison Office (ONE) or its designated equivalent of the sponsoring OAS member country.
- Possess the language competency to undertake studies in the country of study.
- Take and pass admission tests with satisfactory scores, if required by the academic institution they wish to attend, by the deadline set by the OAS upon the award of the scholarship. Any and all costs for these tests will be borne by the applicant.
- Agree to return to reside in the sponsoring country for a period of no less than twenty-four months after completing of the program of study covered by the scholarship if they are awarded an OAS scholarship.

AUSTRALIA

Australian Scholarships

Australian Scholarships is an Australian Government initiative that brings under one umbrella scholarship programs managed by the Australian Agency for International Development (AusAID) and Department of Education, Science and Training (DEST), and that introduces a new AusAID managed program – Australian Leadership Awards.

One of the component programs of Australian Scholarships, the Endeavour Programme, is managed by DEST and has been expanded to develop mutual understanding through study, research, and development to create international experiences for Australian undergraduates through the Australian University Mobility in Asia and the Pacific (UMAP) Program. Exchanges are for one or two semesters. Subsidies are valued at $4500 per student. Participating countries include the United States.

KAZAKHSTAN

Bolashak Presidential Scholarship Program

Kazakhstan was the first Central Asian country to launch in 1993 a presidential scholarship program for study abroad. The International Scholarship of the President of the Republic of Kazakhstan, or “Bolashak” (“future”), allows students to study in many countries of the world for the bachelor’s degree, the Master’s, or the Ph.D. (33.5% have studied in the U.S.)

The scholarship is awarded to both first-year and transfer students. In March 2005 President Nazerbayev announced that 3,000+ annual student scholarships would be awarded at both the undergraduate and graduate level. Between 1994 and 2004 a total of 785 scholarships were granted. In 2005, 6698 students applied and 1796 received scholarships. In 2006, there were 2429 applicants and 778 scholarships were awarded. In 2007 scholarships were awarded to 267 students and in 2008 896 scholarships were awarded. The top countries enrolling scholarship students were the United Kingdom, the USA and Russia with the UK and US having the most significant numbers.

Students are enrolled in majors that are prioritized by the Kazakh Government. While the majority of the scholarships are awarded in Technical majors there are also a significant number awarded to students studying the Humanities and a smaller number in Medicine.

JCS Center for International Programs in Kazakhstan administers the program in partnership with the Ministry of Science and Education of the Republic of Kazakhstan. The scholarship covers full tuition and fees, provides a monthly living stipend, money for books, travel to and from the university, and health insurance.

Ministry of Higher Education Scholarship

There are very specific conditions for obtaining and maintaining a MOHE Scholarship. These conditions include a) being a Kuwaiti citizen, b) being a graduate of a Kuwait high school or equivalent, c) must be one of the following:

- Nominated through the Annual Scholarship Program of the Ministry
- Meet the requirements for inclusion in the Ministry's Scholarship Program
- Son or daughter of a diplomat to whom ministerial decrees apply.

There is an approved list of majors and universities available on the MOHE website and scholarship recipients may not change their majors or transfer once the scholarship is approved. There are minimum TOEFL requirements that students meet either prior to being awarded the scholarship or after one term of Intensive English Language studies in the US. Scholarship recipients have general and academic responsibilities, which are outlined by the MOHE.

Ministry of Higher Education Pre-Merit and Merit Scholarship

The Ministry of Higher Education's Pre-Merit and Merit Scholarship Programs offer a limited number of scholarships to qualified students enrolled at highly ranked universities. This is a competitive program, which means that students may meet the general requirements for the scholarship, but only the most qualified students will receive awards.

Merit Scholarship applicants must have direct admission to a program in a ranked university (as defined by the MOHE). Students whose merit scholarships are revoked may still be eligible for conventional scholarship.

Practical Training Award

Scholarship students are allowed to participate in practical training after completion of their degrees provided certain conditions are met.

Scholarships for Private Students in the United States

Private students may apply for Kuwait government scholarship in majors designated by the Ministry of Higher Education provided they meet the requirements outlined by the government.

SAINT LUCIA*OAS Undergraduate Fellowships Program

The objective of the Organization of American States (OAS) Program of Scholarships and Training is to assist the member states with their domestic efforts in pursuit of integral development goals by supporting human resource development in the priority areas established by the Summits of the Americas, the Strategic Plan for Partnership for Integral Development of the Inter-American Council for Integral Development (CIDI), and the OAS General Assembly.

The OAS is committed to promoting and supporting human capacity development and the strengthening of bonds among the peoples in the Hemisphere by maximizing the number of scholarships awarded in reputable educational institutions in its member states with the resources available. To achieve this goal, the OAS Scholarship Program will place more scholarship recipients in universities which belong to the OAS consortium of universities or with which the OAS will make written agreements for the placement of students. Accordingly, the number of scholarships which will be awarded to individuals who have obtained their own admission to a university will be seriously reduced. Thus, applicants who elect the Self-placed Scholarship option only will have less of an opportunity to win an OAS scholarship.

The funds provided by the OAS are intended to serve as a complement to those funds which the scholarship recipient may already be receiving from other sources or to assist the recipient with general costs to make the completion of her/his studies feasible. Grants are administered by LASPAU.

Of the 24 undergraduate scholarships awarded for 2008-09 1 went to a student from Saint Lucia.

Guidelines: To be considered for an OAS academic scholarship, applicants must:

- Be citizens or permanent residents of an OAS member state.
- Possess the educational background and, if required, professional experience to be accepted into the requested academic program.
- Be in general good health as to complete the program successfully.
- Be endorsed by the National Liaison Office \(ONE\) or its designated equivalent of the sponsoring OAS member country.
- Possess the language competency to undertake studies in the country of study.
- Take and pass admission tests with satisfactory scores, if required by the academic institution they wish to attend, by the deadline set by the OAS upon the award of the scholarship. Any and all costs for these tests will be borne by the applicant.
- Agree to return to reside in the sponsoring country for a period of no less than twenty-four months after completing of the program of study covered by the scholarship if they are awarded an OAS scholarship.

THAILAND

Royal Thai Scholars Program

King's Scholars may study whatever they wish in the categories of science or the humanities. The specific category or categories are determined at the time of selection. This scholarship supports the student through his or her undergraduate years and requires only that the student spend time working in Thailand.

Other scholarships, which come from various ministries and agencies in the government, are more specific in their requirements. The Civil Service Commission, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, The Ministry of Science, Technology, and the Environment, the Bank of Thailand and Royal Thai Air Force are among those who offer scholarships. Having determined their long-range needs, these organizations direct their scholars to gain the precise expertise that their organization requires. Unlike the King's Scholars, these scholars are supported through graduate school.

For each year of education, the students, other than the King's Scholars, are expected to serve their sponsoring organization for two years, which can mean making a twenty-five to thirty year commitment to Thailand. Often they become university professors or research scientists and all become leaders in their fields and within their organizational sponsors.

In 1992, the Office of Educational Affairs of the Royal Thai Embassy concluded that the scholars who came to the United States would benefit from an Orientation to American culture and the American educational system. The original program began in the Spring of 1993 at Wyoming Seminary in Kingston, Pennsylvania designed by the Global Development Studies Institute. In the years following 1993, an additional session on writing and college guidance was developed at Brewster Academy in Wolfeboro, New Hampshire. The entire program has been at Brewster since 1999.

Scholarship Sponsors for Thai Scholars

AF — Royal Thai Air Force. This Scholarship requires that the student apply to the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colorado. If the student is not accepted, then he may go to any college having his major. However, the officers in the Royal Thai Air Force who administer the scholarship program tend to rely upon US News and World Report for colleges they will fund. The students are funded only through the Bachelor Degree.

ARMY — Royal Thai Army. This scholarship requires that the students apply to the United States Military Academy at West Point. If they are not accepted at West Point they are required to go to one of the other military academies such as Virginia Military Institute or the Citadel. Arrangements are made with the other military academies by the Royal Thai Army to reserve a place for their Thai Scholars prior to the students being sent to the United States. The students are funded only through the Bachelor Degree.

ART — Aeronautical Radio of Thailand (the organization that manages all air traffic control operations in Thailand is also known as AeroThai). These scholarships allow the student to study through the Masters Degree and then the student can apply to be supported through the PhD. The students are told that they must apply to the top twenty-five universities in their field. The sources of the ranking is not known, but it is likely to be US News and World Report. Students must serve the Thai government for one year for each year of their education abroad.

BOT — Bank of Thailand. The Bank of Thailand offers two scholarships. One requires that the student work for the Bank of Thailand upon return (Phatrabhorn) and the other (Anont) requires only that the student spend five years sometime after college in Thailand. The major of the first is set and the second allows the student to choose. The students are given a list of colleges to which they are allowed to apply. The second scholarship student must serve one year for each year of education abroad.

IPST — Institute for the Promotion of Science and Technology. This Institute is responsible for science education in Thailand through its work on science curricula in the schools, the support of research in the sciences, and advocacy of science policy in the government of Thailand. They sponsor a number of scholarships, which send students to many nations including the United States. The students are required to study pure science, mathematics or technology majors. The scholarship is funded through the PhD. There is no restriction on the colleges to which they may apply. The students will become university professors or researchers. Students must serve the Thai government for one year for each year of their education abroad.

FA — Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The Ministry funds scholarships in fields of anticipated need within the organization. The students are expected to complete a Masters Degree in their field. They are not restricted as to the colleges to which they might apply. Students must serve the Thai government for two years for each year of their education abroad.

King — King's Scholarship. The government provides nine scholarships in the name of the King. These are the most rigorous and competitive of the Thai Scholarships. The Scholarships are funded through the Bachelor Degree, although a student may apply for graduate scholarships from a sponsoring agency. Students may study in any country and at any university. Students must serve the Thai government for one year for each year of their education abroad.

PTT — Petroleum of Thailand, Exploration and Production, Public Ltd. This is a new company in Thailand that is private although with considerable public ownership of shares. The scholarships are funded through the Bachelor Degree. The students must apply to specific colleges from a list supplied by PTT. However, the majors of these Thai Scholars are mostly offered at only a limited number of universities.

ST — Ministry of Science, Technology and the Environment. These scholarships are funded by the Ministry to increase the number of scientific professors in Thai Universities and to provide leadership and expertise in the National Science and Technology Development Agency. No restrictions on college applications are applied to these students, and the scholars are funded through the PhD. Students must serve the Thai government for two years for each year of their education abroad.

TP — The Thaipat Scholarship is administered by the Civil Service Commission of the Royal Thai Government. The scholarships were created to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the coronation of H.M. King Bhumibol (Rama IX). They are offered in various majors and funded through the Masters Degree. Scholars may apply to have their education funded through the PhD at the completion of their funded education. They are not designated to work in a specific government agency, but are given choices upon their return to Thailand. There are no restrictions placed upon their college applications. Students must serve the Thai government for two years for each year of their education abroad.

All students sitting for these scholarships know in advance both the major (if any) required by the scholarship and the country to which they would be sent if they were to be successful in passing the examination and interviews to win the scholarship. Students may sit for more than one scholarship.

OAS Undergraduate Fellowships Program

The objective of the Organization of American States (OAS) Program of Scholarships and Training is to assist the member states with their domestic efforts in pursuit of integral development goals by supporting human resource development in the priority areas established by the Summits of the Americas, the Strategic Plan for Partnership for Integral Development of the Inter-American Council for Integral Development (CIDI), and the OAS General Assembly.

The OAS is committed to promoting and supporting human capacity development and the strengthening of bonds among the peoples in the Hemisphere by maximizing the number of scholarships awarded in reputable educational institutions in its member states with the resources available. To achieve this goal, the OAS Scholarship Program will place more scholarship recipients in universities which belong to the OAS consortium of universities or with which the OAS will make written agreements for the placement of students. Accordingly, the number of scholarships which will be awarded to individuals who have obtained their own admission to a university will be seriously reduced. Thus, applicants who elect the Self-placed Scholarship option only will have less of an opportunity to win an OAS scholarship.

The funds provided by the OAS are intended to serve as a complement to those funds which the scholarship recipient may already be receiving from other sources or to assist the recipient with general costs to make the completion of her/his studies feasible. Grants are administered by LASPAU.

Of the 24 undergraduate scholarships awarded for 2008-09 2 went to students from Trinidad and Tobago.

Guidelines: To be considered for an OAS academic scholarship, applicants must:

- Be citizens or permanent residents of an OAS member state.
- Possess the educational background and, if required, professional experience to be accepted into the requested academic program.
- Be in general good health as to complete the program successfully.
- Be endorsed by the National Liaison Office \(ONE\) or its designated equivalent of the sponsoring OAS member country.
- Possess the language competency to undertake studies in the country of study.
- Take and pass admission tests with satisfactory scores, if required by the academic institution they wish to attend, by the deadline set by the OAS upon the award of the scholarship. Any and all costs for these tests will be borne by the applicant.
- Agree to return to reside in the sponsoring country for a period of no less than twenty-four months after completing of the program of study covered by the scholarship if they are awarded an OAS scholarship.

Multi-National Year Long Scholarships for Undergraduates Sponsored by US Department of State

Established by the US Congress in 1992, the program was originally called the FREEDOM Support Act Undergraduate Program (FSAU) and was later renamed the Eurasian Undergraduate Exchange Program (UGRAD). It is currently known as the Global Undergraduate Exchange Program in Eurasia and Central Asia. The Global UGRAD program is sponsored by the Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs (ECA) of the US Department of State for one semester and academic year scholarships in the US. Support for this program is also being provided by the Starr Foundation. Since 1992 nearly 4000 students from Eurasia have participated at over 140 campuses throughout the US. In 2009-10 scholarships will be available to 130 students in Eurasia and Central Asia.

The program has expanded to include underrepresented sectors in Central Asia, the Near East and South Asia, and the Western Hemisphere. A total of 460 scholarships will be awarded .
